Swastikas at Mt. Kisco Synagogue Investigated as Bias Crime

By Martin Wilbur

Westchester County police continue to investigate two swastikas found on an exterior wall of Bet Torah synagogue in Mount Kisco more than a week ago.

Synagogue staff discovered the two 2-foot-by-2-foot swastikas on the morning of Oct. 15 spray painted on the wall of the synagogue's nursery school that is adjacent to the playground on its grounds at 60 Smith Ave., said county police spokesman Kieran O'Leary. The incident is being investigated as a bias crime, he said.

It appears the crime occurred sometime late in the evening on Oct. 14 or during the early morning hours of Oct. 15, police said. The area is accessible by foot or vehicle.

"It's disturbing in its historical context and then it is more deeply disturbing to see it in a contemporary context, and then even more so when it's on your walls," said Bet Torah Rabbi Aaron Brusso.

Brusso said the incident was hurtful, but it was important for the congregation to immediately pick up and continue with its daily activities.

"There's an acknowledgement of the pain that it has caused, and in terms of the rhythm of our activity, we haven't missed a beat," he said. "We continue to educate our kids, to hold religious services, to do the social activity projects that we do and I've been very proud of our community in just continuing to do the good work that we do."

Since the incident, local leaders, organizations and clergy have rallied to quickly denounce the act. Mount Kisco Mayor Michael Cindrach attended the synagogue's service last Friday night as a show of support and to reaffirm that

State Rejects Residential Treatment Center for Armonk

By Martin Wilbur

The state Office of Mental Health (OMH) has rejected an application from a California-based residential treatment center to operate a facility for teenagers in Armonk.

In an Oct. 11 decision, OMH Commissioner Ann Marie Sullivan cited Paradigm Treatment Centers' failure to demonstrate public need, a lack of adherence to the agency's regulatory model and exclusionary criteria for admission as reasons to turn down its Prior Approval Review (PAR) application.

"The application fails to demonstrate sufficient adherence to the regulatory model, which describes a program which is focused on developing and implementing a plan with the youth and family on how to live successfully and productively in a community, attend school or prepare for employment and develop the skills needed to return to more normative environments," Sullivan's decision stated in part.

It further mentioned that the agency "emphasizes consumer and family-driven integration in the community, collaboration with other service providers, consumer input and family involvement, and development of community life roles and natural supports."

Sullivan also wrote that the application insufficiently demonstrated a public need for the program in the community and that it failed to exhibit how it would link to other local service providers.

Excitement, Fear Grows About Chance for Constitutional Convention

By Martin Wilbur

It's taken nearly all year for citizens to take notice, but with time dwindling until Election Day an increasing number of voters have realized that a critically important proposition which comes up just once every 20 years is on the ballot.

On Nov. 7, New York State residents will decide whether they want to schedule a constitutional convention to potentially make sweeping changes to the state constitution.

Depending on who you speak with, the convention could rid Albany of much of its corruption and dysfunction or irreparably damage life in New York.

Morgan Pehme, communications director for NY People's Convention, a Manhattan-based group advocating for a convention, said there is good reason why disparate groups that hardly agree on anything – Planned Parenthood and Right-to-Lifers, the Working Families Party and the NRA – are advocating for a Yes vote.

The major political parties and special interests wield disproportionate influence in Albany and dictate what key public policies and issues are raised, he said.

"What is the common thread? They are the groups that have the power in Albany and they are very content keeping things the way they are," Pehme said. "But in our view, New York is one of the most corrupt and dysfunctional state governments, and the status quo is hurting New Yorkers. We have tried through the regular legislative channels (to have) such a resistance and to make a difference and Albany has simply thumbed its nose."

there is no tolerance for hate speech and activity. He also spoke at an African-American event in the village on Saturday to deliver a similar message.

"I was there for moral support and reaffirming that everybody in this community is welcome, everybody in this community has a right to be here and we should support each other," remarked Cindrich, who in his long law enforcement career said he saw many bias incidents.

O'Leary said detectives from the General Investigations Unit have canvassed the neighborhood since the incident occurred. However, no one in the area reported hearing or seeing suspicious individuals or activity in or around Bet Torah in the hours when the incident likely occurred.

The Westchester Human Rights Commission has reached out to the synagogue to express its concern about the incident and offer assistance.

Millie Jasper, executive director of the Holocaust & Human Rights Education Center (HHREC) in White Plains, said the organization is carefully following the police investigation. The graffiti could have been the work of a youth who doesn't completely understand what a swastika represents and was seeking to gain attention or it could be something more serious, Jasper said.

While some organizations have reported a spike in bias incidents, the HHREC does not track such offenses. Jasper said she doesn't know if anti-Semitic and other hate-related incidents are more visible now, but the HHREC's mission is to educate the public, particularly students and teachers.

In an unrelated event that had been previously scheduled, Bet Torah will be hosting a forum next Wednesday evening on finding common ground in Muslim-Jewish relations.

"There's more need for this kind of conversation and we're doing our best to answer the call," Jasper said.

State Sen. Terrence Murphy (R-Yorktown) immediately called the incident "a contemptible and cowardly act."

"We live in contentious times, and an act of this nature only further serves to fan the flames of hatred," Murphy said. "We must have zero tolerance for hatred and bigotry and elevate, rather than denigrate one another. I hope the perpetrators are caught and held accountable for their heinous actions."

Brusso and Cindrich agreed that the support of the community and surrounding churches and synagogues has been extremely comforting.

"This incident in no way, shape, manner or from represents the vast majority of our neighbors and what we consider to be an incredible community," Brusso said.

Anyone with information on this incident can contact the county police confidentially or anonymously at the department's tip line at 1-800-898-TIPS (8477). Tips can also be sent electronically to tips@wccops.com.

All-Day Blood Drive in Pleasantville Nov. 1

Heading into the holiday season, it is important to keep blood donation in mind, even though we are all busy and have hectic schedules. There is a constant need for blood and blood products, and supplies need to be replenished to assure everyone in need can be helped.

The Pleasantville High School ECHO Club and the Pleasantville Volunteer

Ambulance Corps are offering a convenient opportunity to save a life at an all-day blood drive on Wednesday, Nov. 1 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at Pleasantville High School, located at 60 Romer Ave. in Pleasantville. Whole blood and red cell units will be collected from qualifying candidates. Although this drive makes it convenient for Pleasantville residents to participate, blood donors from all towns are welcome.

For information or to sign up, call 800-933-2566 or schedule an online donation at <http://nybloodcenter.org/donate-blood>. Although it is helpful to let the organizers know in advance that you plan to come, walk-ins are always accepted.

Treating Skin Cancer with Radiation Therapy

A non-invasive option for skin cancer that doesn't leave a scar...

Q: Why is radiation therapy used for skin cancer?

A: Radiation therapy can cure skin cancer without leaving a scar – making it an excellent option for patients with skin cancer near the lips, nose, eyes, or other areas where a patient wouldn't want a scar for aesthetic reasons. It can also be a good choice for elderly patients who might not be able to tolerate surgery due health reasons. I treated a 90-year-old patient with a large basal cell carcinoma on her cheek and ear. Because of her age, anesthesia and post-surgical healing may have been difficult. Using radiation therapy, I was able to cure the tumor with a few weeks of radiation treatment, and she had a very smooth recovery.

Q: How does radiation therapy work?

A: Used primarily on basal or squamous cell skin cancers, the therapy relies on electron beam radiation to kill cancer cells. Radiation oncology has a long history of use and tends to work exceptionally well for skin cancer – the success rate is over ninety percent. Patients may experience some redness, dry skin, itchiness, or peeling skin – actually cancer cells respond to treatment by dying and falling off. Within a few weeks, healthy skin cells grow and usually leave no trace of treatment.

Q: I'm a little worried about exposing myself to radiation – is the therapy safe?

A: It's very safe: Radiation therapy precisely targets the cancer, resulting in minimal side effects and little or no damage to the surrounding tissue. Surrounding tissue, such as the eyes or sinuses can be protected by lead shields during the brief radiation treatments.

Q: What's the best way to find a good radiation oncologist?

A: Ask your dermatologist for a recommendation. Ideally, you'll get an oncologist who works closely with your dermatologist and, if necessary, a plastic surgeon. This is a priority at Northern Westchester Hospital, where the medical professionals involved in your care work will all consult together to agree on an individualized treatment plan for your diagnosis. Be sure to check that the oncologist has experience using radiation therapy for skin cancer and remember that, if at any time you don't feel comfortable with your choice, you may seek another opinion.

licensing in August 2016 in hopes of moving into a vacant eight-bedroom house at 14-16 Cole Drive. At the same time, it had entered a lease for $25,000 a month with the house's owner, Ted Mathas, the CEO of New York Life.

When word surfaced last November that Paradigm was eyeing a quiet residential neighborhood to house up to eight youths at a time suffering from anxiety, depression, post-traumatic stress disorder and co-occurring dependency issues, there was fierce community pushback.

Neighbors along Cole Drive and Davis Drive said the operation wasn't needed in the area and the level of activity generated by having an around-the-clock operation would damage the character of the neighborhood.

Opponents pointed out that Paradigm's request for licensing failed to meet the state's Padavan Law requirements that allows for group homes in residential settings for the developmentally disabled and residents with other conditions, but not for transient populations.

Some residents were also irked that the program, at a cost of nearly $50,000 a month, was to benefit only the affluent, although some of the expense could be picked up by insurance.

Resident William Potvin said he and his neighbors were pleased when they heard of Sullivan's decision.

"This should be the end of it, but I don't have any knowledge of their intention," Potvin said of Paradigm. "A lot of people worked very hard right up to the very end, and are still working hard."

He said the efforts of the community and the town to mobilize was "100 percent responsible" for defeating the proposal.

Calls placed to Paradigm's public relations spokesman in New York and to the outfit's headquarters in Malibu, Calif. were not returned. It had 10 days from the Oct. 11 letter to file for an appeal hearing with OMH.

Beyond that, Paradigm can opt to file an Article 78 in the Appellate Division of state Supreme Court, said North Castle Supervisor Michael Schiliro. Last January, the Town Board unanimously lodged a formal objection to the application, which triggered a commissioner's hearing in Poughkeepsie last March.

The facility's representatives during the commissioner's hearing contended that despite operating multiple facilities in California, they eyed New York because close to one-third of their clients have been New York State residents.

Schiliro said that no one on the board had an issue with Paradigm's mission, only the location and that in officials' estimation it failed to comply with the Padavan Law.

"Through the resolutions that we had and the effort that we made, which was to make sure the agencies that were responsible for this understood clearly what our concerns were, and we hoped that they understand it and see it our way," Schiliro said. "At this point they do in rejecting that application."

Sunshine Opponents Charge Greenstein Portraying Them as Anti-Semitic

By Martin Wilbur

Escalating tensions between opponents of the Sunshine Children's Home and Rehabilitation Center's proposed expansion and New Castle Supervisor Robert Greenstein have erupted with allegations that the supervisor is trying to portray them as anti-Semitic.

Emotions have been running high after members of the Greater Teatown Defense Alliance, a group of residents from four towns that formed last summer to fight inappropriate development in the vicinity of Teatown Lake Reservation, ramped up their criticism of Greenstein for recently using an image of a defaced sign in one of his campaign's e-mail blasts.

The photo was of one of the Walmart in the Woods signs inside a circle with a red slash through it that had surfaced in the area about two years ago in opposition to the Sunshine Home expansion. However, the sign that appeared in the image had been defaced with anti-Semitic graffiti. The owner of the Sunshine Home, Ari Friedman, is a Hasidic Jew.

"To dredge up a two-year-old incident that we condemned immediately and to imply that the people who oppose the extremely large expansion of the Sunshine Home are in any way related to that behavior, it's just probably one of the worst kinds of political bullying, or attempted political bullying, that I have seen in local government," said Karen Wells, one of the GTDA founders.

Greenstein said he has never equated project opponents with being anti-Semitic, maintaining that they have a right to object to any project. However, when the Walmart in the Woods signs first appeared, he said he was offended that they would compare a children's hospital to the retail giant, prompting him to take the photo.

"Whether it's comparing the size or not, comparing a hospital with sick children, where five or six of them die per year there, I don't think it's an accurate comparison to a Walmart," Greenstein said. "I'm sorry, we are better than that."

The graffiti was the likely act of a single person that doesn't reflect the community, Greenstein added. He said he called Friedman to apologize on behalf of the community.

The Sunshine Home, located on Spring Valley Road near the Ossining border, received unanimous approval for four permits last week from the Planning Board. It is proposed to expand from 19,000 square feet to about 147,000 square feet and more than double the number of beds from 54 to as many as 122.

Last year, Sunshine received two variances from the Zoning Board of Appeals. Neighbors were harshly critical of the ZBA, which voted to issue a negative declaration, meaning there are no adverse environmental impacts, thereby bypassing the more extensive and time-consuming review.

Coupled with two Article 78 proceedings that have been launched as a result, a political campaign reaching its latter stages and incessant comments posted on social media, tensions have reached a fever pitch.

Neighbors, though, argue that it is Greenstein that has been responsible for igniting the firestorm. Laura Whitlinger, a GTDA member and a resident who lives near the Sunshine Home, said at the group's meeting last Wednesday at Teatown that surrogates for Greenstein have posted social media comments accusing the opponents of being anti-Semitic.

Opponents have also accused Greenstein of trying to pull strings to help the Sunshine Home receive its approvals despite the application having been before the Planning Board and ZBA, not the Town Board.

"This is an environmental issue. Period," Whitlinger said. "Just so you know, he is slandering us to get this done. We put out a press release to address this because it's horrible."

Greenstein said the campaign has spawned an increasing level of vitriol in town, along with large doses of misinformation.

New Castle Supervisor Robert Greenstein

Although a registered Democrat, Greenstein is running on the Republican line for the third consecutive election. He said some New Castle Democrats have been enraged at him and running mates Lisa Katz and Adam Brodsky for breaking the party's 25-year grip on town politics.

"It's a very divisive time with some major policy changes coming out of Washington and people are angry," Greenstein said.

Mt. Kisco Forum Focuses on Upcoming Firehouse Referendum

By Neal Rentz

Mount Kisco officials explained to residents last week why the village has proposed a $10.25 million referendum that would pay for renovations at the volunteer fire department's three firehouses.

The proposition, which will be on the ballot on Nov. 7, would pay for infrastructure work and upgrades accounting for more than $6 million at the Mutual Engine & Hose firehouse on East Main Street, the Green Street facility that houses the Union Hook & Ladder Company and Mount Kisco Fire Rescue Police, and the Independent Fire Company firehouse on Lexington Avenue.

There has been no significant work done on the buildings in more than three decades, said Frank Mannion, chairman of the Mount Kisco Board of Fire Commissioners.

Planned work would enhance energy efficiency and bring the facilities up to code. Other projects included in the bond are roof and window replacement; equipment upgrades; improvements to make the firehouses compliant with the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA); updating antiquated electrical systems; installation of LED lighting; and replacing nonfunctioning cameras and generators.

There would also be a small addition to each firehouse that will provide additional room for each company and its equipment.

Mannion said trucks and equipment are much larger than when the firehouses were constructed, requiring additional space.

There is also a need for facilities for women because when the existing firehouses were constructed volunteers were exclusively men, he said.

At the Oct. 17 forum, resident Nancy Gould-Ralphs questioned why Mount Kisco has separate firehouses.

"You've got duplications of any number of the services," she said.

Mannion said officials explored building a new single firehouse but it would cost about $14 million and would not include the purchase price of the property. There is no parcel of municipal land large enough to accommodate a single facility [large enough] that could serve the entire department's needs, said Mayor Michael Cindrich.

It would also cost the village $4 million to $6 million to buy a parcel for that purpose, he said.

Resident Jill Berkowitz-Berliner asked why there are three small firehouses close together and why one large firehouse was not constructed instead. Mannion responded that historically the village has operated with separate firehouses [most of the time].

Mannion explained that two trucks are required to put out a small house fire and larger commercial building fires require a more extensive response from the Mount Kisco Fire Department and mutual aid from neighboring departments.

"When you have a fire, one engine is not enough," Mannion responded.

Also, three firehouses make it easier for volunteers to report to the firehouse closest to where they live, added firefighter Rich Alexander.

Furthermore, the village provides firefighting service under paid contract to portions of Bedford and New Castle and the firehouses need to be properly located to respond to calls in those communities, Mannion noted.

Cindrich said he has been discussing a renovation plan for three years with the volunteer fire companies.

"It's something that is needed," he said.

If the referendum is defeated, the village would have to spend $5 million to $6 million to upgrade the firehouses to meet current laws, including ADA compliance, Cindrich said.

Resident Ralph Vigliotti, who opposes the referendum, said the village should have considered consolidating the three facilities into two new houses, with two companies in each building. There are private properties that could contain two firehouses, he said.

Vigliotti also said the cost of the improvements should be shared by New Castle and Bedford, as each of those municipalities currently has a contract with the village to provide firefighting service to some of its residents. New Castle and Bedford residents do not have a vote on the referendum.

"We're moving a little quick," Vigliotti said. "We need to take a hard look at consolidation."

Village Manager Edward Brancati said taxes on the average home would rise by $34 a year if the proposition is approved.

Village Board Incumbents, Challengers Debate in Mount Kisco

By Neal Rentz

Mount Kisco Village Board candidates last week debated a wide variety of issues with the three incumbents saying they wanted to build on their accomplishments and the two challengers advocating for a fresh approach to village government.

For the first time in more than a decade there is a competitive race for mayor with 14-year incumbent Michael Cindrich running on the Democratic, Republican, Conservative, Independence and Reform Party lines. He's opposed by first-time candidate Gina Picinich, who is running on the independent 4MK (For Mount Kisco) line.

Deputy Mayor Anthony Markus and Trustee Peter Grunthal, the incumbent Democrats, are being challenged by businessman and property owner Isidora "Isi" Albanese on the 4MK line. It's Albanese's first run for public office.

A standing-room-only crowd packed the Mount Kisco Public Library on Oct. 19 for the forum held by the League of Women Voters of North East Westchester.

Picinich said it was time for someone new at the helm in the mayor's office after "14 years of the same leadership."

Cindrich said prudent budgeting has been among his top accomplishments as mayor. Mount Kisco has improved its bond rating to AA2, the highest rating for a municipality of its size, he said. The agreement for police consolidation with the Westchester County Department of Public Safety is saving the village $1.2 million a year, he said.

Markus said he moved to Mount Kisco because he wanted to live in a diverse community. The village is one of the most fiscally healthy in Westchester, he said.

Grunthal said aside from his time as a trustee, he has been active in many other capacities, such as serving on the Conservation Advisory Council and chairing the village's Finance Committee. Grunthal said his priorities are controlling government costs while paying competitive salaries to village employees and protecting the natural environment.

Albanese, owner of Exit 4 Food Hall on East Main Street, said he would bring his longtime business experience to the board. His many years of experience would be an asset to village residents and taxpayers, he said.

Questions were posed by residents during the more than two-hour program. In response to a question about how to encourage more commercial development, Picinich said Mount Kisco's codes need to be revised. For example, with the village code prohibiting unlimited membership for exercise clubs and other excessively restrictive laws, new businesses are discouraged from coming to the village, she said.

NEAL RENTZ PHOTOS

Mount Kisco Mayor Michael Cindrich and his challenger, Gina Picinich, participated in the League of Women Voters of North East Westchester's Candidate Forum on Oct. 19 at the Mount Kisco Public Library.

Mount Kisco Village Historian Harry McCartney asked if the candidates would support the protection of Kisco Mountain from development. Cindrich said he supported the proposal to construct a 129-unit senior housing complex at 270 Kisco Ave. The project would bring the village $8 million from the sale of the property and taxes, while protecting most of the mountain from development, Cindrich said.

Markus said that he's "very much in support of open space" and that the mountain should not be developed for senior housing.

Grunthal said Kisco Mountain should not be the site for senior housing. The importance of protecting the mountain outweighs the income that the senior housing project would generate for the village, which would translate to a less than 1 percent reduction in village property taxes, he said.

Picinich and Albanese agreed that the mountain should not be developed for housing.

Planning Board Chairman Doug Hertz asked the candidates what zoning changes they would seek. Grunthal said one potential zoning change would be for Radio Circle to allow for the development of a senior housing complex.

Albanese said zoning should be changed to encourage additional businesses to come to the downtown.

Astorino Dogs Latimer Over Unpaid Taxes on Rye Home

By Neal Rentz and Martin Wilbur

Republican Westchester County Executive Rob Astorino continued to hammer state Sen. George Latimer last Wednesday over his refusal to pay property taxes on a home in Rye.

Astorino, who is running for a third term against the Rye Democrat next month, said that since 2012, Latimer has missed multiple tax payments on the house at 60 Roosevelt Ave. totaling $48,742. The taxes are due on the home that Latimer and his wife obtained following the death of his mother-in-law.

"There are four tax liens on the Latimer property and he simply refuses to pay," said Astorino, who has repeatedly lambasted the veteran lawmaker for raising taxes at every level of government that he has served during his 30-year legislative career but has failed to pay his own.

Astorino said the unpaid taxes rise to close to $51,000 because the Latimers have taken the senior citizen STAR exemption. The STAR exemption may have been "technically legal," but not ethical and Latimer should return the $2,100 they obtained from the exemption, Astorino said.

"A subsequent check of records showed no legal dispute over the house, none whatsoever," he said. "George has since been forced to admit this."

Astorino said the Latimers took full ownership of the home in 2012, adding they have paid a portion of the property taxes but not all.

A check of the City of Rye record showed that since 2012 there have been 10 tax bills missed, mostly for Rye schools and Westchester County, totaling $46,009. There is one unpaid city tax bill from earlier this year for $1,929.01.

Last week Latimer struck back at Astorino, denying that he owns the house and charging that the county executive wants to talk about anything except his record.

Latimer said there was a transaction between his wife and mother-in-law before the latter's passing, which is being contested by another member of his wife's family.

"What Rob has done, and I think it's a flat-out lie, is try to attach that as if I control it or own it and I don't," Latimer said. "Right now he doesn't want to defend his record."

He said all tax obligations and other outstanding bills on the house will be satisfied when the matter has been resolved.

The Roosevelt Avenue property showed up on his ethics report because he was forced to list all property that is owned by him and his spouse and what they co-own, according to Latimer. He also denied saying that it was part of a probate.

"It is a dispute between lawyers representing another member of her family who is contesting the transaction by which she got the house," Latimer said. "It has not gone to court. Other than that, it's a personal matter of my wife's family."

Latimer stressed that the house that he and his wife, Robin, live in on Wainwright Street in Rye all the taxes are paid on time and are up to date. City of Rye record corroborate that comment.

During an Oct. 18 press conference, Astorino also blasted Latimer for being hypocritical and for not voting on the state budget this year because he was on vacation.

"God help anyone with financial issues running against George Latimer. He had no problem excoriating his 2014 state Senate opponent for missing mortgage payments," Astorino said.

Letters to the Editor

Cindrigh Has Proven to Be an Effective Manager for Mount Kisco

Although a formal apology was made in last week's Letter to the Editor section for use of the phrase "lack of cultural assimilation" to describe Mount Kisco (written by Picinich's campaign manager Diana Rozgonyi), it's clear to those in the know that the platform behind the Picinich and Albanese campaign remains the same despite a frantic attempt to backtrack.

Supporters of Picinich and Albanese use the slogan, Shine A Light on Mount Kisco. Yet their behavior exhibits a double standard and in accusing Mount Kisco of vagrancies and cultural assimilation, they are shedding a negative light on a very venerable segment of our population. There is very little vagrancy in Mount Kisco and it should be noted that the word "vagrancy" is a term from the '60s that is no longer used in New York State law.

The Picinich camp talks about a movement, but a movement for what? They have yet to tell us the improvements that they will make to Mount Kisco and how. It makes one wonder if their choice to run is based on personal agendas. Mayor Cindrigh and his team have indeed moved our town forward. More than two dozen new stores opened in Mount Kisco last year. When Mayor Cindrigh took office, the reserve fund was a little under $1 million; today it is close to $12 million. Thanks to the expertise and planning of Mayor Cindrigh, our three firehouses will be renovated to code and the much-needed DPW garage will be rebuilt.

Mayor Cindrigh has addressed and resolved hundreds of issues over the years and can be credited for a safer town with many more police patrolling our streets and neighborhoods thanks to the merger that he facilitated with the Westchester County police, a move that was hailed as pioneering by our Mount Kisco Police Benevolent Association. If that's not moving the town forward, then what is?

For the record, I have not seen or heard any negative campaigning from the Cindrigh camp, only thoughtful and productive management coupled with respect for his opponents. This is the type of leadership that Mount Kisco will continue to progress under. I urge Mount Kisco taxpayers to vote for Mayor Cindrigh and his team on Nov. 7.

Joe Cambareri
Mount Kisco

New Leadership is Needed for Mt. Kisco to Meet the Challenges Ahead

At the Mount Kisco Candidates forum last week, Gina Picinich made a comment that really resonated with me. To paraphrase, she said that we all needed to measure what our impressions of life in Mount Kisco are at this moment.

When we go downtown to grab a bite to eat, do we look around and think to ourselves, "Life in Mount Kisco cannot get any better?" Or do we see the empty storefronts and the sidewalks in need of repair and wonder "What if?" What if our village had a better reputation for being an inviting place for new businesses? What if our village had streetscapes that welcomed visitors to its borders and to its lovely downtown? What if this village was able to elevate itself to the next level and truly reach its potential?

During the forum, current Mayor Michael Cindrigh repeatedly highlighted initiatives that his current administration is working on, but for which they need more time. What strikes me as odd is that I know many of those initiatives (revitalizing the business district, refreshing the streetscapes, etc.) have been discussed for years, with little to no forward motion. I respect Mr. Cindrigh and the service he has provided this community. But he's been the mayor for 14 years; I myself have probably voted for him at least five times. The time has come for new leadership.

My family and I moved to Mount Kisco in 2004 because of the vibrant downtown, diverse population and family-friendly walkability. We truly love this village. But the fact is, progress in town has become stagnant. I've watched as neighboring towns have become more charming, more innovative and more engaging. And quite frankly, I'm tired of watching.

Gina Picinich is willing to dig deep on every issue, engage the entire community and encourage action rather than inaction. Isi Albanese has a long history of generosity to the community of Mount Kisco, and his businesses (including Bellizzi, Frannie's and now Exit 4) have always been welcoming places for all of us to gather. His insights on how to attract and sustain new businesses are desperately needed.

On Nov. 7, I will be going to the bottom of the ballot and proudly casting my vote for Gina Picinich for mayor and Isi Albanese for trustee. I urge you to do the same.

Amy Ferguson
Mount Kisco

A Fresh Perspective is Needed on the Mount Kisco Village Board

Wouldn't it be refreshing to have a nonpolitician who has real experience working for us to reenergize the economy of Mount Kisco?

I respect Mayor Cindrigh, he seems like a kind and well-intentioned person who has devoted 14 years to our town. However, as Mount Kisco's business community continues to suffer, the residents of our town will continue to bear an onerous percentage of the tax revenue needed to maintain our infrastructure.

The idea of a pure democracy is infeasible as we simply cannot all vote on every issue that comes up. As a result, we elect leaders to make those decisions for us. But when our government leaders stop identifying with their constituents because they have spent too much time as professional politicians instead of constituents, it is time for a new perspective.

At the candidates' forum on Oct. 19, I was excited to hear that Gina Picinich and Isi Albanese bring with them extensive experience that goes beyond the narrow confines of government. Like many of the most effective leaders before them, they bring experience in the business world, which frankly to me, is much more valuable and exactly what Mount Kisco and its tax base needs.

Gina worked in large corporations, managing people and a profitable organization in an area from Maryland through Maine. She has experience in strategic planning, global communications and project management. She is a member of the Bedford Central School District's Budget Advisory Committee that consults on a budget five times the size of Mount Kisco's.

Isi has been a successful local businessman for 35 years. He manages employees, customer experience and profitability. He has envisioned multiple restaurant concepts and brought them to reality, overcoming barriers that to others would be insurmountable.

We don't need politicians to run Mount Kisco. We need smart people with business experience who want to listen to and represent all of our constituents. We need elected officials who can provide the basics, such as clean water and public safety, but can also go beyond the basics and find ways to use their experience to revitalize our town and breathe new life into our local economy.

Edward Witz

Letters to the Editor

The Entire Community Must Come Together in Face of Anti-Semitism

On Sunday morning, Oct. 15, the rabbis and the congregants of Bet Torah arrived at their synagogue to find swastikas spray painted on their building. The police were called and reports were filed. And the congregation of Bet Torah was left to grapple with the pain and the heartbreak pulled to the surface by such acts, and with the harsh reality of the hatred and the anti-Semitism which continues to be a part of the fabric of our communities and of our country.

This is not the first time something like this has happened in our local and surrounding communities. Shaking our heads in disbelief or writing it off as graffiti or pranks was never, and is not now, an option. Silence in the face of such hatred and racism is complicity.

While we know this type of behavior does not represent the overwhelming majority of people in our community who daily live out the values of kindness and care, we also believe each of us has a duty and a responsibility and a moral obligation to stand up and to speak out and to say such acts are wrong. Parents need to say it to their children. Friends need to say it to their friends. We need to say it to each other. We can be better than this.

Mt. Kisco Dems Off Base for Involving Arts Council on Campaign Material

As chairperson of the Mount Kisco Arts Council, I find that it is important to discuss the matter of the use of the council in recent campaign literature published by the Mount Kisco Democratic Committee to support their candidates in the upcoming election.

The Mount Kisco Arts Council is a collective voice for the arts in our community, organized to ensure access to the arts through education, collaboration and partnerships with artists and the community. The Mount Kisco Arts Council does not espouse any political agenda or affiliation, nor does it endorse any candidate for office, whatsoever.

I find it tremendously inappropriate that some have taken advantage of the good name and reputation of the Mount Kisco Arts Council for political gain. The council has always been grateful to the employees and officials of the Village/Town of Mount Kisco for their support. However, for local political players to use the council's name and organization to try to gain political favor in the community is offensive to its board. Were it explained that by financially supporting the council with an "arts" line item in the budget that the Village Board would hold it as a quid pro quo at election time, we would certainly have declined its offer.

The political campaign literature put out by the Mount Kisco Democratic Committee dismisses the energy, enthusiasm, planning and hard work of council members, volunteers, sponsors and associated artists, insofar that it appears to appropriate these efforts and lay them as a mantle of accomplishments around the incumbent candidates.

On behalf of the Mount Kisco Arts Council, I request that the Mount Kisco Democratic Committee chairperson and the committee's candidates publish a public written apology for politicizing the council and further pledge publicly that they will refrain from using it in any further political publication or debate in the future.

Chairperson, Mount Kisco Arts Council

New Castle Candidate's Letter Contained Multiple Inaccuracies

I am writing to address several inaccuracies in the letter to the editor that you published from Gail Markels ("New Castle Sewer, Infrastructure Projects Show Failure of Leadership," Oct. 10) who is running for New Castle Town Board.

Any suggestion that the town failed to apply for grants for our downtown infrastructure project is false. The town applied for three separate grants for this project. We also submitted a grant application to the Environmental Facilities Corporation (EFC), which was specifically mentioned in Ms. Markels' letter.

Similarly, it is not true that the town failed to apply for EFC funding and "neglected to correct errors and omissions" in grant applications for the Riverwoods/Yeshiva/Random Farms sewer diversion project. The town applied for EFC grants in 2014 and 2015. We did not apply for an EFC grant in 2016 because we knew it would be futile. The state comptroller's office had advised the town that it would not certify the proposed sewer districts due to the magnitude of the unfunded project costs. The town also would have been required to incur a $36,000 expense to update our engineering and environmental assessments.

But we didn't give up. Instead, we formulated a new approach - bifurcating the project. The sewer diversion for Riverwoods and Yeshiva would be piped to Mount Kisco. The sewer diversion for Random Farms would be piped to Briarcliff, through Millwood. This will save $4.5 million. We are also saving millions by allowing the homeowner associations to deal directly with New York City DEP. This eliminates the need for the state comptroller to certify the sewer districts. And, we are closer than ever to bringing sewers to Millwood.

Lastly, it is alleged that New Castle residents can expect to pay higher property taxes as a result of our infrastructure project. Again, not true. Our bond issuance and the associated debt service will not have any effect on the tax levy or tax rates. Since 2015, property taxes in New Castle have been essentially flat, and they're going to stay that way in 2018 under our proposed budget.

I am running for re-election with Deputy Supervisor Adam Brodsky and Councilwoman Lisa Katz. Four years ago, we ushered in a new era of nonpartisan local government. We've put community over party. We're proud of our record, and we're looking forward to getting more things done.

Our residents deserve to have accurate information provided by candidates for public office. Thank you for the opportunity to do just that.

Mt. Kisco Has Deteriorated Under the Cindrach Administration

Mike Cindrach is running for re-election for Mount Kisco mayor on the Democratic Party line. He is also running on the Republican, Conservative, Independent and Reform party lines. I find this perplexing. A political party typically parallels a candidate's major ideologies. What does Mike Cindrach really believe in? It seems as though he is willing to align himself with any agenda in order to get re-elected. As a Democrat, how can I vote for a man who also calls himself a Republican and a Conservative?

Why would we re-elect a man who after 14 years in office has let the Town of Mount Kisco slip from being one of the top towns in Westchester County to not even being in the running?

Mount Kisco has gone from an attractive and vibrant place to one with vacant stores, deteriorating sidewalks and confusing parking. I have not heard any real plans to revitalize the town; instead I watch the current administration stagnate with a complacent "what can we do?" attitude.

This time we have a real choice. One of the priorities of the 4MK Party is to rejuvenate the business district and encourage and stimulate investment in our community. Gina Picinich and Isi Albanese want to see Mount Kisco regain its vibrancy. They want community input and involvement from all constituents. They want to improve our infrastructure not just for safety but as a way to attract and sustain new residents and businesses.

The 4MK Party is at the bottom of the ballot. I encourage you to skip to the end and vote for Gina and Isi. Please join me if you too would like to see Mount Kisco thrive.

Many others, though, are actively working to defeat the proposition. Bruce Campbell, a board member with the Lower Hudson Valley Progressive Action Network (LHVPAN), the Westchester-Putnam chapter of the state group, said too many hard-fought gains could be lost in a single convention. That could include dismantling the pension system, sabotaging environmental protections to ensure clean drinking water and many others.

"If you have a convention it opens it up to changing everything, including things that are in the constitution that protect a lot of working families that would be under attack at a convention," he said. "I think a lot of the people who want changes in the constitution want a kind of a panacea, they see it as an easy thing."

Campbell said while much good came out of the 1894 and 1938 conventions, it was a different world that didn't have so-called "dark money" trying to heavily influence elections.

Stripping away pensions is one of the scare tactics the opposition has used, Pehme argued. He said people already in a pension system are guaranteed their pensions by the U.S. Constitution, although it is theoretically possible for future workers to miss out on that benefit.

Pensions have already been weakened as the state has revised the system five times, Pehme said. The pensions for newer workers are now far less robust, he said.

Assemblyman Thomas Abinanti (D-Pleasantville), who is against a convention, said special interests with deep pockets would likely tilt the delegate balance by being able to put up their candidates and push them through.

He said extremists could take over and could make revisions such as abolishing the Freedom of Information Law.

"The dreams of reform are likely to be shattered by the nightmare of the election results," said Abinanti, who will be speaking about the proposition at the Mount Pleasant Democratic Committee meeting on Nov. 2 at Tesoro d'Italia restaurant in Pleasantville. "In simple terms, because who gets elected as delegates will determine what the convention will do, and in big money times, it's going to be big money delegates."

He advocates individual constitutional amendments passed by the legislature and voted on by the public. There have been more than 200 of those passed in the past 100 years, and another, Assemblyman David Buchwald's pension forfeiture bill, is up for a vote this year, Abinanti said.

But Alan Rothstein, the interim executive director of the good government group Citizens Union, said those against the convention are the ones pouring in the money. In fact, Pehme estimates that the No camp could outraise the Yes side by as much as 10-to-1.

Rothstein said while there have been many propositions over the years, no major changes such as campaign finance reform, early voting or overhauling the state's court system ever gets accomplished legislatively.

"For major structural reforms, this hasn't happened," Rothstein said. "They amend the constitution frequently, but not in a major way, not in regard with how the government works."

How Does a Constitutional Convention Work?

If the Nov. 7 proposition passes, there will be elections in each of the state's 63 senatorial districts next November to determine the three delegates who will represent each district.

Any citizen can run to become a delegate from their district as long as they gather 1,000 signatures from members of their party if they are a Republican or Democrat. Independents would need 3,000 signatures or signatures equaling at least 5 percent of the voters in the last gubernatorial election in their district.

Another 15 at-large statewide delegates would bring the total to 204.

A convention would convene on Apr. 2, 2019, and likely last up to six months, although there really isn't a time limit. However, a convention would have to be completed in time to get whatever questions are on the ballot for the 2019 general election.

Delegates would be paid at the same rate as a state legislator – a $79,500 salary – for the duration of the convention.

Cost estimates by anti-convention groups are pegged at up to $300 million while pro-convention advocates argue it wouldn't exceed $100 million.

Millwood Set to Throw a Party for Hamlet's Bicentennial

By Martin Wilbur

You only get to turn 200 once, and Millwood is ready to celebrate in style.

The sometimes overlooked hamlet of New Castle is going to be throwing a party this Saturday afternoon at Gedney Park in recognition of its 200th anniversary year. There will be activities for children, music, several food trucks, an ice cream truck and a craft beer garden sponsored by DeCicco & Sons.

"I'm very excited," said Councilwoman Hala Makowska. "It's going to be a wonderful event. I think you're only going to have your bicentennial once."

The initial idea came from Rocky's Millwood Deli owner and longtime Millwood Fire Department volunteer and former chief Greg Santone. With the hamlet's bicentennial year approaching, Santone mentioned it to Makowska and town officials.

"I just felt with 200 years of history that it might be nice to have something centered on the Millwood side of town," Santone said.

He said while he may have planted the seed, the New Castle Town Board, led by Makowska, the board's lone Millwood resident, ran with the idea and has turned the day into what should be a fun community event.

The festivities get underway at noon with pony rides, face painting and pumpkin painting, a bouncy castle, balloons and other activities. Throughout the day BIRDDOG, a southern rock band, will be performing and Camp Kiwi will be on hand to provide rides and games for children, including a gaga pit. At 3 p.m., dancers from the Artistry Dance Project will be performing on stage.

If you're thinking of attending, there will be plenty to eat. Three trucks - The Melt Mobile, Gyro Uno and Road Grub - will be selling their food. They will be joined by Nicky's Ice Cream for those who want to treat themselves.

While there is some parking at Gedney Park, additional cars will be accommodated at nearby Westorward Elementary School, said Supervisor Robert Greenstein. The town will provide shuttle bus service to and from the park.

In addition to DeCicco & Sons, other sponsors include Millwood Plaza, Rocky's Millwood Deli, Sunshine Children's Home & Rehabilitation Center, Mavis Tire Supply, Summit Grossman, Kiwi Country Day Camp, Drug Mart, Millwood Animal Hospital, Shari Shaw, Platinum Drive Realty, Tazza Café, New Castle Physical Therapy & Personal Training, Dodd's Liquor City, Matero Fine Jewelry & Design, Kumon Math and Reading Center of Ossining and Houlihan Lawrence.

The event will run from 12 to 5 p.m. Admission to the park and activities are free; the food and beverages are available for purchase. Gedney Park is located at 155 Millwood Rd. (Route 133).

It will be an afternoon of fun and games this Saturday at Gedney Park to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the hamlet of Millwood.

Runners Ready to Compete in Tina's 5K in Pleasantville

By Anna Young

Hundreds of runners and walkers will be taking to the streets of Pleasantville this Saturday for Tina's 5K Run/Walk.

The seventh annual event, which was conceived in 2011 by Pleasantville resident Michael Bloom, now a college freshman, raises money for The Tina Shaina Gambino Memorial Foundation.

"The event has continued to grow and the community has embraced it," said Janice Gambino, Tina's mother. "I think with it going on year after year, people have become more aware of it and enjoy the day."

With the 5K coinciding with the Pleasantville Farmers Market and the annual Ragamuffin Parade, the day has become representative of community spirit., Gambino added.

Following the unexpected death of 17-year-old Tina Gambino in November 2004, Bloom collaborated with the Gambino family to create the 5K as a community service project for his Bar Mitzvah and to honor the memory of his first babysitter.

Bloom was just five years old when Tina passed away.

"The 5K was really a success that first year and it has continued to grow and become an annual event between support from our sponsors, volunteers and the support of the community," Janice Gambino said. "Michael continues to come back and support it every year. It's been a wonderful association and it

Several hundred runners will be at the start on Saturday morning for the seventh annual Tina's 5K Run/Walk. The race is named for Pleasantville's Tina Gambino who died in 2004 at 17.

says a lot about him."

During the event, children are invited to participate in the shorter Fun Run and a relay race around the Pleasantville High School track prior to the 5K. The 5K runners start the race at the high school and work their way around the village.

Gambino added that the race will be professionally timed for anyone who wants to have their time recorded. Medals are handed out in several categories, including the top male and female participant.

The foundation also runs several programs throughout the year, including the annual awarding of a $7,000 college scholarship every year to two Pleasantville students. Gambino said the REFLECTIONS Scholarship is for students who work hard and embody a sensitive, optimistic, thoughtful and outgoing attitude.

An additional $178 is given toward the scholarship representing the amount of money contained in a wallet that Tina once found and returned to its owner.

Along with the 5K, the foundation teams with Pleasantville High School for the Drive Smart Program, which teaches safety to new drivers and parents. The program also encourages organ donation, which Tina had signed up for prior to her passing.

The foundation brings food and nourishment to Maria Fareri Children's Hospital at Thanksgiving for families and patients at the hospital. Tina had been a patient at Maria Fareri during Thanksgiving in 2004.

Despite the inspiration the Gambino family has spread throughout the community, Gambino is overcome with emotion when she thinks about how her daughter's death inspired them to help others.

"It's good to have a legacy," Gambino said. "It's just something that motivated people, not just us, but many others to go off and honor another person. It's making good out of something bad you can never change. It's just an incentive to go forward and do good."

Tina's 5K Run/Walk will begin at 9 a.m. this Saturday, Oct. 28 at Pleasantville High School. Registration is from 7:30 to 8:45 a.m. at the school. The Fun Run will begin at 8:15 a.m. for the youngsters at the track, with registration beginning at 7:45 a.m.

The entry fee is $25 for adults and $15 for students 18 and under. Same day registration is $30 for adults and $20 for students.

Economic Vitality

We will revise code to eliminate barriers to competition and progress. We will work with landlords and commercial realtors to host business open houses. We will establish a taskforce to resolve parking issues and improve the customer experience. We will modify zoning as part of the Comprehensive Plan update.

Financial Responsibility

It is a top priority that Mount Kisco remains an affordable place to live for everyone. We will keep taxes low while cost-efficiently reinvesting in the community to promote healthy growth.

Beautification & Infrastructure

We will create a Capital Plan that will prevent facilities from falling into disrepair. We will ensure the DPW has the resources needed for regularly scheduled maintenance. We will partner with businesses to beautify locations throughout the village, and accelerate the plan to repair the downtown streetscape.

Development

Public input is essential as we explore development options that are mindful of our community and the environment. Building on Kisco Mountain should be a last resort. We will seek other locations for development to increase our tax base.

Open & Transparent Governance

We will modify the structure of board meetings to be sure that all key resolutions are publicly announced and open to comment before a vote. We will continue to listen to the needs of the entire community and encourage public participation in local government.

Building Code Enforcement

Safety is paramount and cannot be compromised. We will be consistent and fair to tenants and landlords.

Term Limits

Elected office and board chairmanships are not intended to be careers. We will set reasonable term limits for any position of leadership, elected or appointed.

The Teddy Bear House, a Tudor, is Up for Sale

Every house has a story, some more exciting than others, but there's always some kind of story, even with new construction if you consider what has gone into its planning and construction.

In my career as a realtor, I've had the pleasure to represent some houses with extraordinary stories, including my own, the Ebenezer White House, circa 1734, in Yorktown Heights, which I recently sold. Now, my real estate partner Michael Pierce and I have just listed the Michtom House, built in 1926 (aka The Teddy Bear House), in Cortlandt Manor.

And why, you might ask, is it called The Teddy Bear House? Because it was built as the country refuge for the family of Morris Michtom, the toymaker who developed and manufactured the original teddy bear in the early 20th century, inspired by President Theodore "Teddy" Roosevelt. With the success of the teddy bear, Michtom went on to establish the Ideal Novelty and Toy Co.

A perfect example of the Tudor period, the four-bedroom, 2,000-square-foot Michtom house sits on an acre on Briar Lane, a sleepy, tree-canopied road that harks back to a time when the area was primarily for leisure time activity for the well-to-do from the city.

Its owners, Diane and Bob Frissora, have lived in this sturdy structure with its stucco outer walls and slate roof since 1971 and are emotional about placing it on the market, especially Diane.

"It's where we raised our family," she said.

Bob Frissora, a builder, looks at the prospect of a sale more practically, saying "How could you build a house like this today? What would it cost using these materials?"

A special prospect of this particular property is that it has an adjacent one-acre buildable lot that is zoned two-family, which is rare for upper Westchester.

"This lot can be incorporated into the deal for the house – or not," Bob said, "so it could be a family compound or purchased along with the house as an investment opportunity."

There aren't many true Tudors in upper Westchester like the Michtom home. The style flourished in America from 1890 to 1940, and the area at that time was mostly small homes and summer cottages, rather than grander structures like this one.

In more urban settings, the style referred to as Tudor was based on a mix of late Medieval and early Renaissance styles. European-trained architects, influenced by Old World styles, brought the eclectic, asymmetrical Tudor style to America toward the end of the 19th century. Built for wealthy homeowners, Tudor houses were of solid masonry with elaborate decorative stone and brickwork. They were sometimes called "Stockbroker Tudor" because their financially successful owners had frequently made their wealth in the booming 1920s stock market.

These homes featured such elements as steeply pitched roofs, decorative half timbering and embellished doorways.

"Basically, this is a lower Westchester kind of home in upper Westchester – at an upper Westchester price," Bob Frissora said. "How can you beat that?"

Business of the Week

Mags Deli Mount Kisco

By Colette Connolly

Transitioning from the frenetic VIP/executive transportation business in Manhattan to becoming a deli owner is the kind of life-changing experience that Steve Talbot hasn't regretted for one minute.

Over a year ago, the Bronx native purchased Mags Deli on East Main Street in Mount Kisco. He may never have worked in a deli before buying the business, but that didn't stop him from learning and quickly making improvements.

"This is so much better," said Talbot, referring to the stress of his previous job overseeing 400 limousine drivers and keeping corporate clients happy.

"Heading north instead of south every day has taken away 50 percent of my stress," he added.

The 1,500-square-foot space, which includes seating, is more than just a traditional deli. Talbot serves up an array of daily hot specials, some of which include chicken parmesan, homemade macaroni and cheese, homemade stuffed shells, sausage and peppers, and more. Much of the fare is a combination of Greek and Italian food, based on his Italian heritage and his wife's Greek background.

Talbot said his hand-stacked Greek gyros are the best in Westchester, similar to the gyros you'll find in Greece.

"One hundred percent of the people who try our gyros don't go back to the others," he said.

Talbot travels to Astoria, Queens regularly to buy the marinated meat that goes into his creations. Customers can choose from lamb or chicken, both of which are served on pita bread with lettuce, tomato, onion and tzatziki sauce.

At Mags Deli (the name is an acronym for the immediate members of his family - his son, Michael, wife Angela, daughter Gina and himself), you'll also find Greek fries on the menu. Different from regular French fries, these are seasoned with salt, pepper, oregano and feta cheese.

Other items available on the deli's Greek Corner menu include souvlaki on a stick or pita bread and homemade moussaka, pasticho, spinach pie and baklava, among other favorites.

Talbot is a stickler for creating fresh quality food, even doing some of the cooking himself. Throughout the day, customers can order from the breakfast menu, which includes a variety of egg sandwiches and specials such as The Breakfast Barge, (three eggs, cheese, hash browns and bacon on a wedge); The Heart Attack, (three eggs, bacon, sausage, cheese, hash browns and chicken cutlet on a hero or wedge); and The Stroke (two eggs, bacon, sausage, cheese, hash browns and chicken cutlet on a roll). Omelets and pancakes are also available, in addition to an array of breakfast sides.

Talbot caters for all occasions, and makes a number of specialty cold sandwiches, such as The Godfather, which includes hot soppressata, fried eggplant, ham capicola, provolone, hot peppers and oil and vinegar; The DM, a combination of Genoa salami, ham, mortadella, provolone, lettuce, tomato, roasted peppers, oil and vinegar; and The Club Master, containing turkey, bacon, lettuce, tomato and mayo.

A variety of hot sandwiches can be ordered, along with soups, salads and Italian heroes.

Mags Deli is located at 454 E. Main St. in Mt. Kisco and is open Monday through Friday from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on weekends from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

To order online, call 914-864-1810 or visit www.ordermagsdeliny.com.

Customers may also download the Mags Deli app, which can be obtained at the Apple App store or on Google Play. Orders of $15 and up are delivered free. Catering orders can be called in or made online but give 24 to 48 hours notice. Racks and sternos can be provided at the customer's request.

Criminal Justice Discussion at Mt. Kisco Public Library Oct. 28

Experts on a wide range of criminal justice issues will be speaking at two Community Conversations: Criminal Justice, Yesterday and Today forums, to be held at two libraries in northern Westchester.

On Thursday, Oct. 26 from 7 to 8:30 p.m., the program will be held at John C. Hart Memorial Library in Shrub Oak. Panelists will include Barbara Lambros of the Westchester County Reentry Task Force; Roger Panetta, author and professor emeritus at Fordham University; and Edmundo Varela, assistant commissioner, Westchester County Probation.

The second program will be held at the Mount Kisco Public Library on Saturday, Oct. 28 from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Speakers will be Tamaris Princi, abusive partner intervention coordinator with the Urban Resource Institute, and Dr. Kimberly Collica-Cox, associate professor in the Criminal Justice and Security Department of Pace University.

Organized by the Westchester Library System in collaboration with the Sing Sing Prison Museum and funded by the Westchester Community Foundation, the programs will focus on the 200-year history of Sing Sing and its impact on prison reform, as well as current issues of incarceration, reform, rehabilitation and re-entry.

Brent D. Glass, director emeritus of the National Museum of American History at the Smithsonian Institution and senior adviser to the Sing Sing Museum project, will moderate both panel discussions and will be joined by Dana White, Ossining's village historian. Each presentation will be followed by time for questions and conversation with members of the audience about the past and future of the American criminal justice system.

The public is invited to attend the Community Conversations free of charge. Program information and resources, including a reading list related to issues of criminal and social justice, is available at www.westchesterlibraries.org and conversations.westchesterlibraries.org. Information on the history of Sing Sing and the Sing Sing Prison Museum project is available at www.singsingprisonmuseum.org.

Hillside Donation Day Sets Record at P'ville Farmers Market

On Oct. 21, shoppers arriving at the Pleasantville Farmers Market were greeted by volunteers of the Pleasantville Community Garden handing out flyers about the day's Hillside Donation Day.

This biannual event highlights the weekly effort of the Pleasantville Community Garden to collect donated foods from farmers and bakers at the market to ease food insecurity in Westchester County. Shoppers were asked to consider "buying an extra item of fruit, produce or bread" and contribute to the initiative.

Many shoppers, unaware of the weekly generosity of the market's vendors in addressing this cause, were startled to hear that more than 9,000 pounds of fresh food has been contributed from vendors in 2017, so far.

Shoppers responded by contributing a record collection amount for a one-day Hillside Donation Day event. Overall, 945 pounds of fresh food was collected - 514 pounds were shopper donated and 431 pounds were farmer donated by the time the market closed. All items were delivered to those in need later that day, or at the top of that week, by Hillside Food Outreach.

"The great success of the Oct. 21 event at the Pleasantville Farmers Market highlights the incredible generosity of the market's shoppers and the farmers and bakers," said

There were 945 pounds of fresh food collected last Saturday at the Pleasantville Farmers Market for Hillside Food Outreach, a one-day record.

David Juros of the Pleasantville Community Garden. "We are thankful for the amount of food donated and so happy to be able to provide the conduit to get this fresh, healthy food to the Westchester residents in need through our partner organizations."

"We cannot thank our shoppers and vendors enough," said Steven Bates of the Pleasantville Farmers Market. "And we truly appreciate the volunteer efforts from the Pleasantville Community Garden and Hillside Food Outreach; without their logistical help this effort could not happen."

Kensico Cemetery to Host Alzheimer's Association 5K

Kensico Cemetery in Valhalla is hosting a 5K Run/Walk this Sunday, Oct. 29 at the cemetery to benefit the Alzheimer's Association Hudson Valley Chapter.

Organized by Alzheimer's Association volunteer Jocelyn Roberts of Tarrytown, the Run/Walk starts at 9 a.m. at the Franklin Montross, Jr., Memorial Pond at Kensico Cemetery. There is a 3.1-mile route around Mineola Lake, up and down avenues of sycamores, oaks and maples and alongside examples of inspiring architecture and design.

The public is invited to join Alzheimer's Association volunteers and Kensico employees as runners, walkers, volunteers, contributors or sponsors by visiting www.endalz5k.com and selecting their preferred form of participation. The registration fee for runners and walkers is $40; children 12 and under are $10. On the day of the event, the registration fee is $45 for adults.

As the host, Kensico Cemetery is providing the location, hospitality services, publicity support and underwriting setup costs. Davey Tree is co-hosting the 5K Café pre- and post-event refreshments.

The Alzheimer's Association Hudson Valley Chapter seeks to advance research to end Alzheimer's disease and dementia while enhancing care for those living with the disease.

"It was a natural for us to partner with another not-for-profit organization that has memory-keeping as its mission," said Kensico Cemetery President Raymond M. Planell. "Plus, this event provides another opportunity to share a beautiful landscape with our community."

"What makes this partnership even more special is that the community is coming together to get some good exercise with the lovely landscape that the Kensico Cemetery provides to raise funds and awareness in the fight to end Alzheimer's disease," added Special Events Manager Lauren Voorhees speaking on behalf of the Alzheimer's Association.

On race day, participants are asked to enter the Kensico Cemetery property through the Tower gate off Route 100. Volunteers will direct runners and walkers to the parking area and starting line at Franklin Montross, Jr. Memorial Pond.

Established in 1889, Kensico Cemetery is a nonprofit membership organization serving the burial needs of the New York metropolitan area.

Greeley Athletic Teams to Make a Difference on Nov. 5

More than a dozen local Horace Greeley athletic teams are coming together to support pediatric and adolescent cancer research and programs that assist these children and their families in the Greeley All-Athlete Walkathon on Sunday, Nov. 5.

Now in its fourth year, this grassroots event was started in memory of Gardner Marks (Class of 2008), who lost his life due to complications from cancer. This year, the walk also honors Horace Greeley student Casey Taub, who bravely fought brain cancer over the past two years but succumbed to it this past summer. Brain and spinal cord tumors are the most common cause of childhood deaths among any specific illness and no community is immune.

Hundreds of student-athletes will walk together Horace Greeley High School's Competition Field. The event will raise awareness and funds for leukemia, lymphoma and brain and spinal cord tumors affecting kids and young adults. The Greeley Sports Boosters is sponsoring the walk and are helping to promote the cause.

Anyone interested in fighting pediatric and adolescent cancer may participate in the event on Nov. 5 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. This year's slogan, "One Team -

Student-athletes will return to Competition Field on Nov. 5 for the Greeley All-Athlete Walkathon to raise money for pediatric cancer.

One Dream," focuses on the power that individuals can have by working together as part of a universal team. Donations may also be made to the cause at www.makingheadway.org/greeley.

All proceeds from this event will be split evenly to support two local Chappaqua-based nonprofit organizations. The Gardner Marks Foundation is devoted to raising money toward helping families in need of financial support, logistics and mental health. Now in its 21st year of operation, The Making Headway Foundation provides care and comfort for kids with brain and spinal cord tumors while funding medical research geared toward better treatments and a cure.

Moody Blues Singer Set to Rock Paramount Stage This Sunday

By Anna Young

Legendary musician John Lodge is ready to rock the stage Sunday night at the Paramount Theater in Peekskill.

Following the release of his second solo album in 2015, "10,000 Light Years Ago," The Moody Blues singer decided to go on the road and embark on his first ever solo tour.

"I thought I must come to America and perform my songs; it's music that draws all of us together," said the English musician who began his tour last year in the United Kingdom. "I have a love affair with America and I've been wanting to bring the John Lodge album to America."

As a member of The Moody Blues since 1966, two years after the band was founded, Lodge is no stranger to touring and performing. Despite the success he's had over the last five decades, the 72-year-old singer-songwriter said his solo career has allowed him to explore songs never performed live by the legendary band while also showcasing his latest album.

"What's really nice about a solo career is that I can approach it differently and go to places I've never been before," Lodge said. "By having a solo career, it enables me to play songs we never did and look at something differently."

While Lodge will perform tracks from his latest album, fans can also expect classic Moody Blues tunes like, "I'm Just a Singer (in a Rock and Roll Band)," "Gemini Dream" and "Ride My Seesaw."

Lodge will also perform with longtime collaborator Alan Hewitt on keyboard, guitarist Duffy King, Moody Blues drummer Gordon Marshall and Norda Mullen from The Moody Blues on flute.

"It's really nice to complete the circle and work again with friends," Lodge said.

With Lodge touring throughout the Northeast through November, he's looking forward to performing the classics, sharing his latest music, enjoying the fall weather and creating new memories.

"I think every time you go on the road and perform you have the experience that adds to who you are," Lodge said. "To me, the important part right now is that I have this new album and I want to share it with everyone, perform it and I want people to enjoy it."

Lodge will perform at the Paramount Hudson Valley, located at 1008 Brown St. in Peekskill on Sunday, Oct. 29 at 7 p.m. For more information or to buy tickets, 914-739-0039 or visit www.paramounthudsonvalley.com.

Fans of The Moody Blues can see a few of its members perform this Sunday, led by singer John Lodge, at the Paramount Hudson Valley in Peekskill.

Help For Homeowners In Foreclosure

New York State Law requires that we send you this notice about the foreclosure process. Please read it carefully. Mortgage foreclosure is a complex process. Some people may approach you about "saving" your home. You should be extremely careful about any such promises. The State encourages you to become informed about your options in foreclosure. There are government agencies, legal aid entities and other non-profit organizations that you may contact for information about foreclosure while you are working with your lender during this process. To locate an entity near you, you may call the toll-free helpline maintained by the New York State Banking Department at 1-877-BANKNYS (1-877-226-5697) or visit the Department's website at www.banking.state.ny.us. The State does not guarantee the advice of these agencies.

In the Land of the Rich, There's Opportunity for the Persevering

By Nick Antonaccio

In my two most recent columns, we've explored the rarified air of the high-end wine auctions for rare wines. Typically the domain of the one percenters, it might seem that these auctions are the playgrounds and/or the battlefields of the rich. Auction houses carefully curate their offerings; the average price of a bid lot typically tops $3,000.

It would seem these stratospheric prices exclude anyone seeking to purchase and enjoy wines beyond those available in their local wine shop. For some wine consumers, who have developed a fine palate and wish to enjoy finer wines, the concept of attending an auction is intimidating and beyond their credit card limits.

Fear not, all ye who live vicariously through the checkbooks of those you silently envy.

Cast aside your trepidation. Step into the world of wines otherwise hidden from view in the catalogs and sales sites of auction houses. Expand your palates and your appreciation of older wines. Delve into the world of fine wines – at prices not much more than a mortgage payment or a student loan installment obligation.

'Cast aside your trepidation'

So, if you can rationalize a splurge or two, follow me down the path of the new age of bidding on wines not found in the brick and mortar world – the digital world of electronic auction bidding.

Just as the Internet has democratized most goods formerly entrenched in shoe leather sales, so too with wine.

Yearning to avail yourself of an older bottle of Bordeaux or Burgundy? Ever wondered what the taste and aromas might be of your favorite California Cabernet Sauvignon after a few years of aging?

Look no further. Your furtive quest may be satiated through digital technology. The Internet has advanced the ability of procuring wines from the comfort of your home, office, coffee shop or anywhere you can find a Wi-Fi connection.

Here's how.

Open an account with an electronic auction house. Several brick and mortar houses have established collector-friendly sites. Simply create an electronic account and you're ready to delve into the world of wine auctions.

One of the earliest virtual auction houses is Winebid.com. Many of its offerings are small lots, even single bottles; some may be won for under $50.

Most of the high-end houses offer Internet bidding, which tend to be of lesser cost. A favorite among bargain seekers is Heritage Auctions.

A few hints:

1. Decide which regions or vintages you're interested in beforehand. Auction houses offer online catalogs you should browse before the auction begins. You'll avoid the stress of the fast-paced atmosphere of more aggressive bidders.
2. You don't have to bid in the live online auctions. Perfectly acceptable are pre-auction bids that set the maximum you wish to bid on select lots. Let the auction house manage the bidding for you.
3. Price-check retail prices of wines you plan to bid on at the website wine-searcher.com. It's a fine reality check of reasonable market prices.
4. Don't be overly concerned with vintage ratings. My maxim: there are excellent wines from poor vintages and mediocre wines from great vintages. Many fine wines are hiding right in front of us in full view, obscured by a critic's blanket assessment of a vintage.
5. Perhaps the greatest bargains (relatively speaking) are wines that are noted as having torn, stained or faded labels. They may not be trophy wines, but they will afford you the opportunity to taste a rare wine at a reasonable cost.

6. Remember that online auction sites are in the business of generating profits for themselves. Be sure to factor in the mandatory buyer's premium and, oftentimes, shipping charges. These may add an additional 20 to 25 percent surcharge to your purchase price. Your $300 to $400 purchase may ultimately cost you up to $500.

Are online auctions the panacea for forlorn wine consumers, envious of high-end investors? You decide. As for me, a brief encounter with an aged nectar of the gods is a sublime experience, even if infrequent.

Reframing Westchester's Housing Crisis. Alexander Roberts, executive director of Community Housing Innovations (CHI) and founder of the Westchester Workforce Housing Coalition, will lead this discussion. Roberts has spoken out against the zoning policies that have made the New York metro area the second most segregated in the U.S. and driven young adults from Westchester. Community Unitarian Universalist Congregation, 468 Rosedale Ave., White Plains. 11:45 a.m. Free. Info: 914-946-1660 or visit www.cucwp.org.

"Come and Meet Your (Former) Neighbors: Now Permanently Residing at Fair Ridge Cemetery." The New Castle Historic Society and Fair Ridge Cemetery are sponsoring a public reception celebrating the 150th anniversary of the cemetery, including guided tours of its most historic sections. Founded in 1867 by a group of prominent New Castle citizens, its first president was Horace Greeley. The cemetery tours will highlight the monuments of several historic families, whose landmark homes still exist, such as the Hights, Havilands, Quinbys and Washburns. Refreshments will be served. Fair Ridge Cemetery, 475 Quaker Rd.,

Chappaqua. 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. (Tours are at 1, 2:15 and 3:30 p.m.) Free. Advance registration recommended. Info and registration: Contact Cassie Ward at 914-238-4666 or director@newcastlehs.org.

"Life Cycles." Bill Viola's haunting video/sound installation "Going Forth by Day," commissioned by Guggenheim Berlin, harkens back to Italian Renaissance-era frescoes to reflect upon the passage of nature's cycles and the temporal flow of birth and regeneration. Through vivid, evocative and sometimes mysterious moving images, Viola displays an unerring command of sound, light and space and a deep understanding of art and spirituality. Still video images from Viola's work will accompany Music from Copland House's performance of Puts' remarkable and wide-ranging score. Merestead, 455 Byram Lake Rd., Mount Kisco. 3 p.m. $25. Friends of Copland House: $20. Info and tickets: Visit www.coplandhouse.org.

Vivaldi's "Gloria." A performance of "Gloria" and other beloved choral and instrumental music from Handel and Parry to help celebrate the 175th anniversary of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Armonk. The concert will also feature the world premier of "How Lovely is Your Dwelling Place" commissioned by St. Stephen's from acclaimed British composer Paul Mealor. Followed by a reception. St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, 50 Bedford Rd., Armonk. 4 p.m. $15 online. $20 at the door. Info and tickets: Visit www.ststephensarmonk.org.

John Lodge of The Moody Blues in Concert. Bass guitarist, vocalist and songwriter for the iconic rock band The Moody Blues and author of hits such as "Ride My Seesaw," "I'm Just a Singer (In A Rock and Roll Band)" and "Isn't Life Strange?" Lodge has been performing and recording with the group for more than five decades. This year marks the 50th anniversary of The Moody Blues' album "Days of Future Passed" and to celebrate, John and The Moody Blues embarked on a very special tour that included a complete performance of this iconic and groundbreaking album. Paramount Hudson Valley, 1008 Brown St., Peekskill. 7 p.m. $57.20, $68.65 and $85.50. Info and tickets: 914-739-0039 or visit www.paramounthudsonvalley.com.

Monday, Oct. 30

Master Networker Meeting. Join this high-energy interactive membership network of learning-based, service-oriented entrepreneurs and business leaders. Come be a guest any Wednesday to learn more about this world-class business training and referral program. Mount Kisco Coach Diner, 252 E. Main St., Mount. 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. Free. Every Monday. RSVP suggested. Info and RSVP: Contact Tina Campbell at 914-441-1383 or e-mail tinacampbell@masternetworks.net or just drop in.

Zumba Fitness. Achieve long-term benefits while having a blast in one exciting hour of calorie-burning, body-energizing, awe-inspiring movements meant to engage and captivate for life. For all fitness levels. Dance Emotions, 75 S. Greeley Ave., Chappaqua. Every Monday and Wednesday at 9 a.m. and Saturdays at 10 a.m. Drop in or weekly discount rates available. Info: Contact Peggy at 914 960-4097.

Spooky Tales. Come with your little ones to a riveting storytelling performance celebrating Halloween with master storyteller Jonathan Kruk. Hear spooky but not-too-scary tales and join in with guided audience participation. Following the performance, a special brew (hot cider) and other ghostly treats (cookies) will be served. Come in costume; prizes given to all. Recommended for children three to eight years old. Caramoor Center for Music and the Arts, 149 Girdle Ridge Rd., Katonah. 3:30 p.m. Adults: $15. Children: $10. Info and tickets: Visit www.caramoor.org.
