Noah Benson Scores Six Times
During Briarcliff's Victory Friday
Against the Wildcats of Westlake in the Class D Sectional Playoffs

Briarcliff Defeats the Wildcats in the Class D Quarterfinals

By Andy Jacobs

Briarcliff senior midfielder Noah Benson had provided three goals for the Bears in their late-season victory over Westlake just over a week ago. They turned out to be merely a hint of things to come.

On Friday afternoon, with the stakes much higher, Benson erupted for six goals, sparking host Briarcliff to a 12-9 victory over the Wildcats in the quarterfinals of the Section One, Class D sectional playoffs. Two of them came in the midst of a four-goal Bear blitz that turned an early deficit into a 5-3 lead they never relinquished.

"You look up 'leader' in the dictionary, you see him," said Briarcliff head coach Al Meola after witnessing the huge game from Benson. "He's the perfect leader. He's unbelievable. He makes everything work. He's the stick that stirs that drink for the offense. A phenomenal player."

Before the exploits from Benson, it was the seventh-seeded Wildcats who jumped ahead in the first quarter. They scored three consecutive goals after the Bears' Kyle Proctor tallied the game's first goal just 42 seconds after the opening faceoff. Ryan Donnery, who finished with five goals in his final varsity game, scored the first two just over a minute apart.

When Andrew Llamas capped an over-two-minute-long Westlake possession by sending a one-hopper into the net with 4:59 left in the first quarter, the Wildcats suddenly had a 3-1 advantage and seemed well on the way to emphatically avenging their road loss to the Bears just eight days earlier. But Westlake then went 13 minutes without a goal, while Briarcliff responded with its game-changing 4-0 run.

"As the game kept going on, we just keep shooting ourselves in the foot, and the kids know it too," said Wildcats coach Mark Castellano, pointing to all the turnovers that derailed their offense. "We talked about it all week at practice. The first time we played 'em, we had 12 turnovers and we still only lost by two. It's just the same thing. We keep on turning the ball over. You're not gonna win against a quality opponent like that if you turn the ball over."

A turnover on Westlake's first possession of the day had led to the goal by Proctor that put the Bears on the board first. Momentum quickly shifted to the Wildcats with their three consecutive goals before Benson ended a seven-minute Briarcliff scoring drought with the first of his half dozen goals. Then, with just under two minutes left in the first quarter, Proctor, a sophomore who wound up with a hat trick, tied the game at 3-3.

"Yeah, both games they jumped out on us with a lead," said Meola. "We were able to battle back and stuff. I think we got the lead in this game and we didn't lose it anymore. So it was pretty good. They're a great team and, honestly, this was a tough battle. We knew this was gonna be a real tough matchup. They do a great job, and those Donnery boys (Ryan and Dylan), hats off to them. I love those kids. I wish I had 'em on my team."

Briarcliff grabbed the lead for good nearly 90 seconds into the second quarter as freshman Jack Ricciardi, who amassed an astounding nine assists, faked a shot, then sent a pass left to Matt Waterhouse, who side-winded a shot from left of the cage into the upper right corner of the net. Benson scored his second goal of the sun-splashed afternoon with 5:15 to go before halftime and the Bears up a man.

With just under four minutes left in the half, Ryan Donnery took a pass from his brother and scored from the left doorstep, cutting the Briarcliff advantage to just

5-4. The Bears threatened to regain the two-goal margin with a Ricciardi shot caroming off the far pipe and then by peppering Westlake goalie Nick Veltri with five more shots over the last two minutes.

Westlake held the ball for over two and a half minutes to start the second half, but a turnover led to Benson's third goal of the game, on a straightaway rocket with 8:17 remaining in the third quarter. Just 38 seconds later, a goal by Anthony Capasso enabled the Bears to build a 7-4 cushion.

With 3:38 left in the period, Aidan Murnane, taking advantage of another Westlake turnover, used an overhead crank to send the ball past Veltri and give Briarcliff its largest lead of the game. The Wildcats managed to score twice in the final minute of the quarter, sandwiched around another one from Benson. Dylan Donnery's acrobatic goal with seven seconds on the clock, as he was tumbling to the turf, sliced the Briarcliff lead to 9-6 heading to the last period.

"If you saw the Bronxville game," said the Wildcats' Castellano, "we were down 12-5 and we came all the way back to make it 12-11. We've always said we've been a fourth-quarter team."

A fourth-quarter comeback by the Wildcats began with a goal from Matthew Sardo nearly two minutes in. His shot from left of the cage caromed off of goalie Evan Van Camp, then bounced into the net. But Westlake would get no closer after that. Two more goals by Benson, Briarcliff sophomore Anthony Capasso is poised to bring the ball around from the back of the cage in the fourth quarter against Westlake.

sandwiched around Ryan Donnery's fifth of the day, gave the Bears an 11-8 lead with 6:30 remaining.

Ricciardi, after dishing to his teammates all game, all but sealed the outcome when he scored into an empty net with 1:21 showing on the clock after Capasso had escaped from a double team behind the cage and passed him the ball. The Wildcats' Greg Cafaro scored on a no-look, over-the-head flick at the buzzer to close the scoring.

Asked which goal had been the back breaker for his team, Castellano said, "I think the last one. We had the kid (Capasso) in the perfect spot in the corner there. You know, we had three guys on him. Just couldn't push him out of bounds. As soon as that goal went in, I saw a lot of kids put their heads down. It's tough. When you have a kid in the perfect spot like that, you've gotta be able to push him out. You've got to execute and we just didn't."

"This was a good team win by us," said Meola, whose Bears are now just one win from a sectional title after beating Haldane in the semifinals three days later. "Really stuck to our guns and played our Briarcliff brand of lacrosse. We kind of knew what they were gonna be running at us. We watched a lot of film. We watched five different games over, like, the last 24 hours, just extracting things that they do man up, man down, rides, clears, shifts, offense."

For the Wildcats, that sort of attention to detail is no longer necessary now that their season has come to an end.

"It's very disappointing, especially for the seniors," said Castellano, whose team finished 11-5 during the regular season. "I would've liked them to go out a little better than this. It's tough that we had to play them (the Bears) in a quarterfinal."

Winning for Bazyk, Fox Lane Pulls Away from Greeley

By Rob DiAntonio

Sometimes when a key player is injured in a critical game, it can leave teammates in shock and have a negative impact on their performance.

The reverse happened for Fox Lane.

The third-seeded Foxes blew open a Class B girls' lacrosse quarterfinal with sixth-seeded Horace Greeley in the second half and pulled away for a 13-7 win on Friday afternoon.

"We kind of brought it in after the injury because we've had a lot of knee injuries this year," Fox Lane senior Olivia Dey said. "We basically said, 'We love her and she's one of our great players, but we can't let this faze us. We can't let it bring us down because they're going to capitalize off that.' We came out with everything we had and played phenomenally."

Bazyk suffered a knee injury near midfield with 1:44 left in the first half and Fox Lane leading 7-3.

"Nat's an important teammate and a captain, so the girls certainly didn't want to let her down," Fox Lane coach Bill Broggy said. "They dug down to give much more effort in the second half. At halftime, we said, 'Let's come out strong. We know what we're capable of.' Sometimes we just come out slow. I knew we could play a little better and they did. They met the challenge and did a good job."

Greeley scored with 58 seconds left in the first half when Grace Byrne darted over the middle and scored to cut it to 7-4. Quaker keeper Sophia Rutman, who stood on her head with 13 saves, made a big stop with 15 seconds left.

"She makes huge one-v-one saves," Greeley coach Maggie Sharp said of Rutman. "She is really a leader out there and I think she takes control of the whole defense, which is really important for us."

Fox Lane stormed out of halftime, scoring six out of the next seven goals. Dey and the Foxes were dominant on the draw, leading to many clock-eating possessions ending in goals.

"We knew that this could be our last game," Dey said. "So we really pulled it together and said that we need to come out with everything we've got and really play how we play because we're a great team. We have girls that have great stick skills and abilities, so we needed to utilize it."

Dey started the run when she grabbed a turnover, rushed in and scored. Eugenia Kaltsas netted an 8-meter goal just over a minute later.

"We played a lot of defense," Sharp said. "They went on a run and we weren't able to come up with the draw. That really killed us."

Greeley got a goal back when Hailey Rosenthal (3G) scored on a feed from Casey Wachtel with 20:57 left in the second half.

Jada Singleton then set up the next two Fox Lane goals, finding sophomore Quinn Alami with 19:36 to go and then Dey a minute later.

"They had a lot of the possession and they have great finishers on their team as well," Sharp said of Fox Lane. "[Singleton] is an awesome feeder. We were looking to send the pressure and then she was able to

Singleton, a sophomore, was a distributing dynamo, finishing with six assists.

"She's been doing really great this season," Dey said. "She really stepped it up because we had a lot of girls that we lost last year. Playing behind the net, she's a very diverse player, so we utilize her very well. She played fantastic today."

Dey (1A) and Alami each netted four goals for the Foxes. Kaltsas had two goals, while Emma Greene (1A) and Alix Riley tallied one apiece. Goalie Maeve Lupparello was big in net with 13 saves for a Fox Lane team that is filled with underclassmen in the starting lineup.

"We're a very young team," Dey said. "A lot of our starting players now are freshmen and sophomores. Having that, it's a little scary being a freshman on varsity in a sectional game, but I think we're really playing our best right now. Everybody's really playing for our seniors, themselves and the team."

Broggy feels that a grueling schedule over the final few weeks of the regular season has prepared them for the playoffs.

"We had six games in nine days the last two weeks," Broggy said. "We really improved and we've had some really good practices. I'm liking where we're going and we're young. We've only got five seniors."

Wachtel had a goal and three assists for the Quakers, who finished the season with a record of 7-10. Bella Arrese and Clara Curnin added a goal each.

"I think we had some close games where we definitely should have won or could have won," Sharp said. "We're a young team and I think that from the start to finish we definitely grew a lot. It was unfortunate to end like this today because we would've obviously loved to win. But they definitely grew and we're excited for next year. We have some people coming back and we'll continue to get better."

Bailey, Morgan Lead the Foxes Past Somers in Class B

By Rob DiAntonio

Your goaltender and face-off man are generally considered two of the most important positions on the lacrosse field.

Both players rose to the occasion for Fox Lane in a Class B quarterfinal against Somers on Saturday. Sean Bailey made big save after big save in net, and Dillon Morgan held his own on face-offs while netting a game-high five goals and adding an assist.

It wasn't a triple-overtime thriller like in the regular season, but it was another down-to-the-wire contest that Fox Lane was able to pull out. The third-seeded Foxes defeated sixth-seeded Somers 12-10.

The Tuskus pulled within a goal at 11-10 with 5:13 to play, but Jake Bazyk responded for the Foxes with a deep blast with 2:49 to go.

"I started the game off a little tough; I wasn't doing the best," Bazyk admitted. "Going down the stretch, it was a nice confidence booster. It got all the energy going on the bench."

The sideline breathed a sigh of relief.

"Last time when we went to overtime, it was just nerve racking when they kept getting the ball for eight minutes straight," Bailey said. "But I have faith in all of my attackmen shooting. I just know that if they can score on me, then they can score on a lot of other goalies in the section."

The yellow flags began to fly for the Tuskus and Fox Lane was able to control possession and run the clock out for the playoff win.

"We were grinding," Fox Lane coach Craig Henley said. "It was an uneasy game because that's a great team (Somers). I have the utmost respect for that coaching staff and the players over there."

Bailey stood on his head in net, finishing with 13 saves. With the Foxes leading 8-6 midway through the third quarter, Bailey made two straight saves at point-blank range.

"I saw it going down and then it's just like whatever reaction you can get to get in front of their stick," Bailey said of the two-save sequence. "You just have to read their shoulders and shot. We've seen them play this year already, so you know who's coming to shoot, who's got the power and who's got the range. It's helpful knowing that. I knew it was going to be a hard fight, but I knew we were going to come out on top."

Somers was able to close the gap to 8-7, but Morgan answered for the Foxes when he grabbed a rebound and finished with 4:06 left in the third. Nick Rossi scored just 10 seconds after that for Somers to make it a one-goal game again.

The Foxes closed the third quarter with goals from Jaak Chasse and Bazyk to take an 11-8 lead into the fourth.

"A lot of us have been on the team for three years. We have a couple of sophomores," Bazyk said when asked how they keep their composure in crunch time during a tight sectional game. "We're all experienced and have been here before. The experience takes over."

Tusker T.J. Deagan cut the lead to 11-

Fox Lane's Dillon Morgan wins a face-off and looks to maneuver around a Somers defender.

9, but it was Bailey with another big save just 20 seconds later to keep the two-goal advantage intact.

"Sean Bailey just played lights out," Bazyk said. "It was one of his best games."

Bailey is a three-year varsity player and was behind Walker West on the depth chart the past two seasons.

"People are finally getting to see what this kid is all about," Henley said. "He's been working very hard for three years. He's a leader and a phenomenal player. He's also a great guy off the field and I'm very happy for him."

In the first meeting, which was won by Fox Lane in triple overtime, Somers dominated the face-offs. But Morgan's return from an injury helped close the gap against Tusker face-off man Conor Jaykus. Somers won 14 out of 25 face-offs.

"He was amazing," Bailey said of Morgan, who missed 11 games during the regular season. "Him being back and healthy, it's going to be big for us in the playoffs."

Bazyk had two goals and two assists for the Foxes. Everett Banks netted three goals. Chasse tallied two goals. Ethan Carmody and Ryan Feeley each had an assist.

The Foxes (12-5) were scheduled to travel to second-seeded John Jay-Cross River on Tuesday, May 21. John Jay routed Fox Lane 13-4 in the Foxes' final regular season game on May 13.

"It's not nothing to lose; I want to win," Bailey said when asked the team's mindset heading into the game with the defending section champions. "We know we can beat them. The last game, nothing went right for us. But hopefully we're going to turn that around and will be playing on the 24th."
